The Parochial Vicar's Point of View

Dear parishioners,

It has started to get a little cooler out there, especially in the evening! I even had to pull out my sweater for the first time this season for my evening walk around town. And that got me thinking – we put on layers of clothing to protect us from the cold. But when you look closely at clothing, even the best clothes we have, it is full of tiny little holes. But by layering those holey (not holy, I don't think!) clothes, the warmth stays in and the cold is repelled.

And that got me thinking about spiritual matters. Our soul is fed by all sorts of things to keep us warm from the inside. That might include picking up the Bible and reading the Word, that might be the love we share with our family members and friends, and that definitely includes the love of Christ that comes to us through the Sacraments, especially the Eucharist. All of that keeps us warm from the inside.

But despite that warmth, there seem to also be forces outside of us that just keep trying to sap us of that warmth. It might be the craziness we see on the news, it might be politics, it might include issues we see with the Church, and it definitely includes everything surrounding COVID. Then there are those more spiritual forces seeking to hit us with darkness and cold: temptations, anxieties, fears, despair, prejudices, hatreds, rage, etc. And it would be a disservice for me to not tell you that many if not all of those forces are truly the work of the devil and his minions. It is essential to have layers of spiritual protection that keep the warmth in and repel those chilling forces of darkness.

What might be some of those layers? First, we must stay grounded in the now. God, who is "I AM" is eternally in the present, and we stay connected to Him when we likewise avoid drifting into the past or the future and instead stay grounded in the present. But there are holes in that – sometimes we must concern ourselves with the past or future. What are some other layers? We must rely on our spiritual allies to envelope us in protection – praying for each other, praying to our guardian angel, praying to St. Michael the Archangel and to St. Joseph, and praying to the Blessed Virgin Mary. These prayers can take on various layers themselves by including a variety of devotions. Then there are the layers of protection offered by listening to good Christian music, watching videos on the lives of the Saints, or reading wholesome stories, literature, or other spiritual reading. And let me recommend one other layer of protection: Adoration! Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament surrounds you with His warm glow, a layer that is very holy and not too holey at all!

There are certainly other layers of protection that I could bring up, but I think we might best start with these. So as we enter fully into fall and then into winter, please make sure to bundle up and stay warm!

God bless you!

Fr. Nick Redmond
Parochial Vicar
